

Amicoipet Smart Collar for monitoring Pet's vital signs

Introducing a brand new smart pet collar for home vital monitoring, which uses completely harmless NPNS Technology to detect pet vital data over a long period of time. This technology originates from the Industrial Technology Research Institute's award-winning innovative technology at CES 2022. Regardless of the length or thickness of your pet's fur, simply wearing the collar without the need for shaving, wireless transmission technology can record your pet's heartbeat, breathing, and activity level at any time, along with the detection of environmental humidity. Pet owners can keep track of their furry friends' vital data at all times, detecting deviations early and seeking medical assistance promptly.

Heartbeat . Respiration rate

Track your pet's heartbeat and breathing rate in real-time, monitor and record the data to help you better understand your pet's physical condition and prevent potential health issues.

Environmental Temperature . Humidity

The monitoring of indoor environmental temperature and humidity data allows you to keep an eye on your furry friend's living conditions, ensuring their comfort and preventing excessively high temperatures and humidity levels.

Activity level . Emotion

By monitoring your pet's activity level and emotions, you can gain insights into their rest and activity patterns at home, helping you better understand their lifestyle.
