Many global players are looking to enter the fast-growing market for sustainable litter substrates, but often face significant challenges due to a lack of technical expertise and difficulty sourcing the ideal raw materials. Cattus invites you to build a strong strategic partnership to develop your own line of renewable and biodegradable cat litters, combining sustainability, performance, and innovation.

Why Choose Cattus as Your White Label Raw Material Partner?

- Strategic Location: We are based in Paraná, Brazil, the region with the highest concentration of industries processing corn, cassava, and pine pellets—the key raw materials used to produce some of the world's most efficient plant-based substrates.
- Technical and Veterinary Expertise: More than just a raw material supplier, Cattus combines its experience as a pet-tech startup with clinical veterinary expertise to develop high-performance formulas that solve the real concerns of cat owners: odor control and efficient waste disposal.
- Customized White Label Projects: We provide commercial, technical, and R&D support for international partners interested in developing their own private-label brands with premium quality and proven sustainability. Having developed our own cat litter brands, we can help our partners successfully create theirs.
- Innovation Ecosystem: As an established and award-winning startup, Cattus does more than manufacture products—we innovate in industrial design and consumer behavior, raising the standards for what the market expects from cat litter systems.
- Brazil as a Global Hub for Sustainable Exports: Brazil has become one of the world's leading exporters of high-quality agricultural byproducts. By establishing a commercial partnership with Cattus, your company gains direct access to this productive ecosystem, ensuring scalability and a product portfolio aligned with future environmental demands.
