

A photograph showing a large industrial facility where metal parts are being coated. In the foreground, several large, dark, curved metal components are suspended by cables. In the background, a large number of smaller, light-colored metal parts are hanging from a complex system of cables and machinery. The scene is dimly lit, with light reflecting off the surfaces of the metal parts.

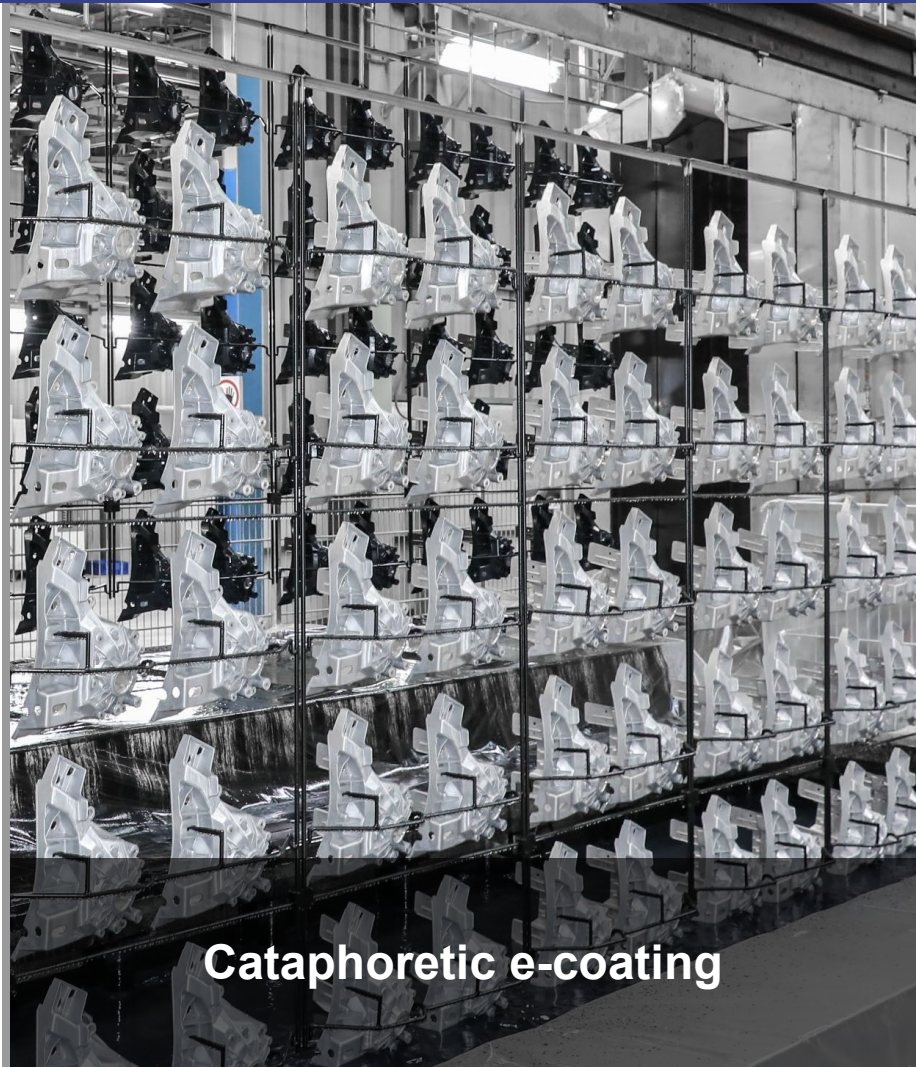

We can surface coatings.
