Chairgo – Ergonomic expertise for people who achieve a lot every day

For 20 years, Chairgo has stood for ergonomic expertise, individual advice and holistic workplace solutions – especially for people who perform at their physical and communicative best every day. At ConSozial 2025, the Hersbruck-based company will present its tailor-made range for educational professionals, particularly those working in early childhood education.

Sitting in motion – for better health in everyday teaching

ETeachers work under challenging conditions: at eye level with children, often switching between the floor, a circle of chairs, parent-teacher conferences and documentation. Chairgo has taken a close look at these special requirements and, together with leading manufacturers, has developed ergonomic chairs that are tailored to the needs of everyday teaching. The result: mobile, height-adjustable and robust chairs that enable healthy working in every position – from the floor to the desk.

For people who move – instead of sitting still

Chairgo's 'BewegtSitzer®' philosophy brings ergonomics into motion. Instead of rigid sitting postures, the company focuses on dynamic sitting with innovative 3D mechanisms, elastic materials and adjustable functions. This promotes back health, supports concentration and increases well-being – not only in daycare centres, but also in schools, medical practices and offices.

Special solutions for a wide range of applications

In addition to chairs for educational professionals, the range also includes special models for medical facilities, laboratories, workshops and administration. Whether sweat-resistant covers, hygienic surfaces, durable shift work chairs or ergonomic school chairs – Chairgo offers tailor-made solutions for a wide range of requirements. And in the showroom in Hersbruck, you can even try out what the manufacturer claims to be 'the healthiest office chair in the world'.

Ergonomics with expert advice – not just anonymous online shipping

Chairgo sees itself as a specialist retailer with a personal, reliable and manufacturer-independent approach. With a brick-and-mortar store, online shop and extensive experience in the field of educational and social institutions, the company accompanies customers from the initial idea to the finished workplace design – with genuine expertise and enthusiasm for healthy sitting.

A strong partner for institutions and organisations

Institutions in particular benefit from Chairgo's experience in equipping entire facilities and teams – from needs analysis and product selection to delivery. Test installations, instruction and individual service are also available on request.
