Mission

SALDFLUX produces 100% Italian consumable materials for brazing, soldering and welding. We provide innovative and high-quality solutions to businesses and professionals, supporting them with custom services and technical know-how.

Vision

To be the global partner of reference for innovation and quality in brazing, elevating industry standards and helping to improve and streamline the production processes of our clients, in Italy and around the world.

The soul of Italian quality

SALDFLUX S.r.l. is a family-run Italian business that is ISO 9001 certified. Founded by the engineer Vittorio Tura and his wife Angiolina, their children and employees continue to ensure made-in-Italy excellence today. The history of SALDFLUX reflects the passion and dedication which has been handed down over the years, now with the third and fourth generations looking towards the future as they stay true to the values of trust, quality, advanced technology, responsibility and respect.

Innovation rooted in tradition

Founded in Milan in 1985 by the engineer Vittorio Tura, SALDFLUX began as a sales office before shifting its focus to production. The company's success came with a firm commitment to quality. Over the years, Tura's sons Alberto and Andrea expanded the business, acquiring the metalworking branch of FISIA S.r.l. in 2007 to ensure the independence of its output. Continuous investment in R&D and the opening of a metal rolling division (sheet alloys) have ensured SALDFLUX's position as an industry leader known for Italian innovation.

Our products: quality that defines us

Quality is fundamental at SALDFLUX. Entirely designed and made in Italy, our products embody excellence, as our ISO 9001:2015 certification demonstrates, while guaranteeing traceability and compliance with regulations (REACH - RoHS). We're a leader in materials for brazing, soldering and autogenous welding, with innovative solutions that are also environmentally sustainable.

SALDFLUX is a partner, not just a simple supplier.

We know that efficient brazing can be complex. Which is why our team of experts offers consulting and technical support tailored to your needs, guiding you in the use of the materials. From air conditioning to cars, from energy systems to costume jewellery, from utensils to musical instruments: we work alongside many companies to ensure optimal performance and drive their success.

An international company

Exporting our products to international customers has been our vocation since the start, and today SALDFLUX is a brand that is recognised and respected on every continent. We have exclusive commercial and distribution agreements in key countries, such as Egypt, Czech Republic, Norway, Finland and Russia. And, in 2012, we began to strengthen our sales network in Italy too, ensuring broad coverage in the country's main industrial areas.
