Bone broths for pets

✓ Natural source of collagen

Rich in natural collagen from slow-simmered bones, this broth helps support strong joints, healthy skin, and a glossy coat.

✓ Supports joints and digestion

Packed with nutrients that soothe the gut and nourish joints, our bone broth supports mobility and digestive comfort, so your pet can enjoy every step and every meal.

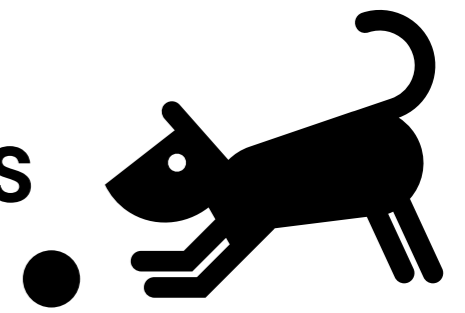

✓ Promotes healthy hydration

The naturally flavorful broth encourages pets to drink more, helping maintain hydration for overall wellness and vitality.

✓ Weight control

Low in calories but rich in flavor, this broth is a perfect addition to meals for pets needing weight management, keeping them satisfied without extra pounds.

Sauces for pets

100% natural ingredients

The sauces are made from FoodStudio's own bone broth and liver. All ingredients are either organic or of natural origin.

Human grade quality

The raw material selection and production process adhere to the standards used in the preparation of products intended for humans.

Contains only one protein source

Simplicity of composition aids in gentle digestion and is helpful for those with food intolerance or allergies.

High collagen levels

Supports joint and coat health. The long boiling process of bone broth results in the natural release of collagen from the bones. The addition of liver further enhances the collagen content.

Low calorie

Products have very low fat content. Fat separated from the bones in FoodStudio's animal broths, and the broths are entirely fat-free. The minimal fat in the sauces comes from the added liver.

Strong aroma and taste

Extremely attractive to pets with sensitive olfactory and gustatory senses. Primarily used as a flavor enhancer in daily food or simply as a healthy treat.

Discover FoodStudio's line of liver sauces, cooked with our acclaimed bone broth and liver, using only 100% natural ingredients.

FoodStudio sets the highest standards, ensuring human-grade quality in every aspect of production, from meticulous raw material selection to adhering to strict standards used in human food preparation.

In our sauces, simplicity meets nutrition and health. The products contain only one protein source, promoting gentle digestion and proving crucial for pets with food intolerances or allergies, offering a healthy option for all.

The high collagen level in liver sauces comes primarily from our bone broth. Through a slow-cooked process, natural collagen is extracted, further enhanced by the addition of natural liver. Your pet's well-being is ensured from the inside out, supporting joint and coat health.

Health-conscious pet owners also appreciate the low energy content of our sauces. Products with minimal fat are ideal for pets struggling with overweight issues or for those consciously caring for the animal's healthy weight.

The irresistible aroma and taste of our sauces enhance your pet's dining experience. Perfect for pets with discerning taste buds, these sauces not only delight but also enrich the dining table for all pets, whether as a complement to daily meals or simply as a healthy treat.

Functional purees for dogs

petfoodstudio.com

FoodStudio's pet food range now includes a new, innovative line of purees – thoughtfully crafted to bring more taste, hydration, and functional benefits to daily feeding.

By using carefully selected ingredients and giving new life to valuable by-products, these purees deliver both sustainability and smart nutrition.

Whether used as a meal topper, treat, or nutritional boost, the new puree series offers pet owners a convenient way to add flavor, hydration, and health benefits to their pet's daily diet.

Natural. Sustainable. Delicious. Made with purpose.

After pressing berries and vegetables, the remaining fiber-rich residue helps support digestion and gut health in dogs. The pressing process separates most of the liquid and sugar, leaving behind valuable fiber that offers several health benefits:

- ✓ DIGESTIVE SUPPORT – The fiber in press residues aids in healthy digestion and regular bowel movements.
- ✓ GUT HEALTH – Fiber promotes a balanced gut microbiome, improving overall gastrointestinal function.
- ✓ WEIGHT MANAGEMENT – By providing a feeling of fullness, fiber can help reduce overeating and support weight control.
- ✓ NUTRIENT ABSORPTION – Proper digestion ensures better absorption of essential nutrients from other foods.
