Pet-Friendly Care

We understand that groomers do important work every day for the well-being of pets. Pet grooming has transcended beyond just washing and maintaining fur. The client is calmed, communication takes place, preventive skin and coat examinations are performed, and treatment is planned according to the skin and coat state. The grooming salon has become a place of high hygiene levels and health standards.

The salon provides safety, quality, and excellent results. More and more groomers are encountering numerous skin and coat problems which they resolve independently or with the help of veterinarians. We admire the great patience, effort, and love that groomers give to every client.

In hopes that we can also be part of this wonderful story, we create and manufacture natural cosmetics that contribute to the quality of care and level of service.

We understand that groomers do demanding work and that we can help them protect their hands before work and recover after work, ease the straining sensation in their feet, and relax their muscles after work. For this reason, we dedicated a part of our product range for the groomers themselves.

Additionally, a part of the collection is intended for salon maintenance, and we also offer an RTU (Ready-To-Use) collection for sale in the salon, enabling clients to continue controlled care at home.

As a cosmetics company with over 30 years of experience in producing human natural cosmetics for dry and sensitive skin, we carefully study the situation on pets' skin and coat. According to these specific needs, we carefully select ingredients and create pet-friendly formulations with advanced functions.

Our primary goal is that every product is completely acceptable to the skin, meaning it must not burden the area of application. Immediately after that, we want to rehydrate, nourish, and improve the current condition, to restore treated skin and coat to a healthy status (if not already). Each product has several active ingredients that help achieve multiple functions in application. The products are designed to be combined in a treatment, to achieve synergistic effects.

We believe that the grooming salon is becoming an important place for advice and suggestions in terms of general care, sun protection and solving various pet problems. For this reason, we want to share our knowledge and experience in hair and skin care with groomers. We are open to communication and feedback.

We continue to develop an assortment that the groomer can offer to the client, providing continuous quality care at home as well, according to an established hygiene plan. In this way, the groomer directly influences the condition of skin and coat in the next treatment.

Most of our collection was made in accordance with actual requirements or groomer needs who understand the coat, so we expect continued requests and new information about problems they encounter. We are happy, as we have been so far, to create new products according to market needs.

Intro

Pet Grooming

- Accelerated development and increasing importance in contemporary coexistence
- In addition to aesthetic effects, it shows an increasing number of health effects
- Is becoming a standard for care, hygiene and health status

Pet Groomers

- Expertise, top results and personalization of the service are expected
- In addition to well-groomed and clean pets, others need to be treated as well
- In addition to the healthy and peaceful animals, others need to be treated as well
- Must adapt activities to the condition of the skin, hair and fur of each client
- Must often solve specific situations and problems
- Provides clients with advice and recommendations on washing as well as skin and fur care.
- The job of a groomer implies numerous contacts with people and animals, resulting in exposure to negative influences and the risk of bacteria, viruses, fungi, zoonoses, ticks and infections.
- Hands suffer the most because of constant contact with water and shampoo (especially shampoos with an alkaline pH), making skin dry quickly.
- Standing for a long period of time can make legs and feet very tired, even cause discomfort and pain.
- Holding the pet during work and difficult positions can additionally strain certain muscle groups, which can cause spasms and pain.
- During contact with clients (especially restless ones), minor injuries can occur, such as scratches, bruises, lacerations, etc.

Grooming Experience collection

- Designed according to professional requirements as support for modern treatment
- Created by an international team of beauticians, veterinarians, groomers and competitors
- Produced by a certified European cosmetics company with over 30 years of experience
- Natural products for professional use
- Multifunctional classic and special products for all fur types and animal breeds
- Products are combined and applied according to specific problems, requests or goals of the treatment
- Combined product configuration provides synergistic effects and achieves a longer grooming effect
- In addition to specialized treatment products, our line also answers the needs of groomers, maintenance of work areas and provides an offer for retail clients.

Products

- Natural without aggressive ingredients
- No burden to the area of application
- Configured for professional use
- Balanced for various types of skin, hair and fur
- Natural or Organic versions

The attractive summer atmosphere and the sun can adversely affect the skin and coat of our pets. We can significantly reduce or neutralize these effects if we take care in advance. It is important to prepare the coat and skin for sun exposure before going out.

A grooming salon can best address this, so it is essential to take your dog for a preventive treatment before heading to the sea or on vacation. The groomer is the person who will know your dog's coat best and who can recommend optimal sun protection products for the treatment. They can also provide advice on coat and skin care during summer days and outdoor activities.

Afterwards, you can safely spend time on the beach, on a boat or yacht, or walking by the sea. Regardless of location or activity, your pet's coat will eventually be full of salt. Therefore, it is important to visit the groomer before heading home or immediately upon return to wash off the accumulated salt and dirt, hydrate and nourish the coat and skin, and prepare the dog for your daily routines. In short, it is extremely important to prepare the coat and skin before going to the sea or warm environment, as well as after vacation or leaving a warm area, to efficiently clean and restore the coat and skin to a healthy state.

How can we recognize a dog groomer?

An unending love for pets simply radiates from this person. Infinite patience with animals and maximum focus on each client are their hallmarks. Calmness and selflessness are always present. Respected groomers have fully booked schedules and always push their capacities to the limit at work.

Through numerous direct contacts, they can be exposed to various viral and microbiological influences. They deal with distrustful and restless dogs, as well as nervous and impolite clients. Prolonged exposure to water, shampoo and other products adversely affects the skin on their hands. Standing and handling pets all day can be physically demanding, often overworking certain muscles. Therefore, it is necessary to disinfect and refresh the workspace and protect the hands from drying out before work, as well as help relax the muscles.

Disinfection and cleaning of the workspace are part of the grooming process and professional hygiene standards. Disinfection is necessary after each client because it creates healthy working conditions. It is advisable to use alcohol-free disinfectants that are safer for dogs. After the workday or in cases of hard soiling, alcohol-based disinfectants can also be used.

Cleaning products should also be harmless to people and animals in the workspace. For grooming salons, we use ecological detergents that do not contain unnecessary or harmful ingredients.

When we want to reward our clients' loyalty, we give them useful little things.

About the Collection

Our comprehensive collection of natural cosmetic products brings together a diverse range of special items designed for advanced care and protection of the skin and fur, as well as efficient washing, cleaning, disinfecting, soothing, while enhancing the well-being of our beloved pets in various situations.

The products are formulated to be fully compatible with the skin and fur, when used together in treatment, to deliver synergistic, multifunctional results. This wide selection of classic and special preparations, each with different purpose and characteristics, allows us to combine multiple products according to need, purpose, condition, or price thus achieving the best possible treatment at an appropriate cost.

The intention of the collection is to maintain the healthy status of skin and fur in every modern situation, refreshing, relaxing, contributing to the well-being of our pets. Certain products are primarily designed for professional use, following expert recommendations from an international interdisciplinary team, addressing the problems and needs of pet grooming and groomers.

About the Manufacturer

European cosmetic company with over 30 years of experience in creating and producing natural, gentle cosmetics for dry and sensitive human skin, is now developing natural cosmetics for pets, based on the recommendations and requirements of veterinary authorities, groomers, and breeders. Each product is formulated to ensure that no part of the treatment irritates or burdens the skin or fur.

The products are made from natural ingredients, mostly from organic farming. Some products are certified by Ecocert France according to the new ECO PETCARE standard.

Designed to meet the diverse modern needs of pets (primarily dogs and cats), these cosmetic-level preparations offer safe, multifunctional treatments. The manufacturer adheres to the latest criteria and recommendations of the international academic community united under the "One Health" initiative, which considers human and pet health as a whole and in relation to the modern environment.
