WE DEVELOP AND PRODUCE RAW MATERIALS FOR SUSTAINABLE PACKAGING.

Our products are used by many international food and consumer goods manufacturers. Together with our customers in various industrial sectors, we develop innovative, economically viable and always recyclable product solutions. We ensure a constantly high product quality through a qualified team, a technological lead in production as well as quality assurance in accordance with international food hygiene and quality standards.

- Our customer base is international: cardboard converters · food manufacturers · the automotive supplier industry
- In product development, we work together with our customers from various industrial sectors on a project-oriented basis and in a spirit of mutual trust
- We are part of a highly innovative group of companies with a high level of supply reliability

Our fibre-based laminates for food packaging and industrial applications have a high recycling content and achieve the required technical function without or, if technically required, extremely low percentage of polymers:

- Circular economy: In general, recyclability is a precondition for the development of our products
- Extensive replacement of PE and PET by fibre-based laminates
- Minimising the use of plastics to ensure necessary technical functions, use of ultra-thin mono films in combination with water-based dispersions
- Consistent use of recycled paper and cardboard in the core of the products or on the non-food side

The HZI Group of companies contributes to more sustainable packaging solutions. In addition to the production of the raw materials corrugated base paper and solid board, the Group offers innovative raw material refinements through coating and lamination and produces reliable packaging solutions, especially for the food industry, at various locations in Germany.

With almost 1,000 qualified employees, more than 950,000 tons of production capacity and 75,000 tons of integrated processing capacity, the companies of the HZI Group offer their customers outstanding product quality as well as high supply security.
